her late-father's love of J. R. R. Tolkien's The Lord of the Rings series. She once said that when she was writing the Potter books, she was not writing children's books but adult books "set in a fantasy world", similar to Tolkien's work. The original plan was to create a series of children's books. However, her editor at Bloomsbury, Mike Kane, told her that it would be a much better story if the books were aimed at adults. The Harry Potter books have been translated into 42 languages and have sold over 450 million copies. By 2012, the series had sold more than 600 million books. J. K. Rowling has received many awards and honors for her contributions to literature and has been featured on several lists of the world's greatest living writers. The Potter books have also been adapted into a film series by Warner Bros. Studios and were highly successful. The movies have grossed over $11.5 billion worldwide.
